Question 8

/15 Marks

Write an essay on any ONE of the following topics. You may either write a persuasive essay OR a narrative essay (both of five paragraphs). It is mandatory to write a rough draft, but marks will be based on the final draft. Rough draft is for your comfort to make sketch, write outlines, bullet points, brainstorming etc.
(Word limit: 300-350)

- I. Persuasive Essay: Do violent video games encourage players to be violent in real life?
- II. Narrative Essay: A time when you experienced rejection

NOTE:

- i. For the persuasive essay: You may write for or against the given topic. Make sure to begin with an interesting introduction leading to a substantial thesis statement. Your thesis is the most important sentence in your persuasive essay. Just by reading that single sentence, your audience should know exactly where you stand on the issue and what are your supporting arguments. Further, keeping your thesis statement in view, develop the body paragraphs of your essay containing three supporting arguments, and also give a comprehensive conclusion.
- ii. For the narrative essay: A narrative essay is a story that has a specific point and it strives to teach a lesson. It is not mere a diary entry – the story is linked to the purpose of the essay, so give a thesis in the opening paragraph and then give a story to substantiate the thesis or lesson. Also, remember that the use of strong descriptive language to explain events, characters, or their actions makes the story interesting and leaves a lasting impression.

Rough Draft

• class difference
• Handards • judgements • part of such society
• college • scholarship • High class
• talks and trend • rejection
• low confidence • down class • invained
Talents • Studies • singing

Beauty was not something to behold it was something one could do

- love yourself
- uniqueness
- work hard
- struggles

- conclusion

Final Draft

Currently, we are living in a society based on class differences. In this era of modernization people are judged by their clothes, wealth, size of their house, car, bank balance, and appearance. Unfortunately not by their characteristics, virtues, traits, wisdom, ethics and talents. Due to these standard stagnations the low class has to face rejection. I faced the same thing in my high school.

It was a hot day of mid July. The sun was shining a little extra brightly that day. It was my first day in college. I got admission in the most expensive college of our area. I was on scholarship there. My dedication and hardwork made me get into that college. It was a dream come true moment for me but unfortunately the things did not go as planned. I had to face the class difference rejection tabo. Most of the people in that college were from high class. They look down on me.

I was unable to avail all the opportunities that were my right. The students their bullied me. Their every word shattered my heart in pieces. They made me feel unaccepted and rejected. The worst part is that I also started to feel awful about myself. I stopped loving myself and lost all my confidence and faith in myself.

I am not a stranger to the dark... run away! They say no one will love you as you are.

This part of my life was very traumatic and depressed. I lost my way, but still I was strong enough to overcome it.

It is weird but one day I read a poetry which affected me so much that my whole life changed after that. It goes like:

Impression
"I won't let them break me down to dust I know that there's place for us, for we are glorious. When the sharpest words wanna cut me down. I'm gonna send a flood gonna drown them out.
I am brave, I am bruised, I am who I meant to be... This Is Me!"

This is the quote of my life which made me realize my worth once again. I once again realize that I have reasons to love myself again.

The purpose of sharing my story was to show how scary this society can be and how rejection affects the mental health of a mere student. There is a great need to remove all these bad standards. People should know that:

"Beauty is not something to behold,
it is something one should do."
