Describe the consequences of down fall of Mughal Empire.

Death of Aurangzeb: After the death of Aurangzeb Alamgir in 1707, there was no strong ruler. Muslims started war with each other and as a result downfall of Mughals started.

Weak Rulers: There were weak rulers one after the other. The Mughal empire started to split up in territories each ruled by a Nawab.

Foreign Traders: Foreign traders like Portuguese, French and British started to settle and took control over economy by appointing their people as governors and officers.

Rise of Marathas: After downfall of Mughals, Marathas started to emerge and started taking control and invading ~~the~~ cities. This led to economic instability.

Nadir Shah Invasion: Due to weak administration, Nadir Shah started invading Indian Subcontinent again and again.

Ahmad Shah Abdali: Shah Wali Ullah called for help. Ahmad Shah Abdali was called to India to normalise or stabilise the situation. But rather he took advantage of situation and invaded many areas.

● Causes of Nadir Shah Invasion:

i) Poor Condition of Empire: The empire was divided and there was no proper emperor.

ii) Bad Economy: The economy at that time was weak and corruption caused the breakdown of economy.

iii) Weak Army: There was no properly organized army which could protect from invasions.

War of Independence 1857: The last Mughal Emperor, Bahadur Shah Zafar was weak and couldn't control the empire. As a result, a war started and Mughal empire came to an End.
